Larry's Annual Report

Page eight of this issue of the Pine Cone is devoted to legal publication of Annual Financial Statement, City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, "a summary statement of receipts and disbursements by departments and funds for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1957 and ending June 30, 1958 . . . a true and exact statement reconciled with the Official Accounts of the City . . . signed L. D. Rose, City Clerk"—more familiarily known as Larry's Annual Report.

It makes pleasant Thanksgiving Day perusal. Though it shows an expenditure of $360,267.33, which is $50,608.26 greater than the preceding year, the city ended up the fiscal year in such good condition, thanks to completion of city lots purchase program, and the ever growing sales tax revenues, that the council was able to reduce the property tax this year 5½ cents.

And for the first time since 1952, the reserve has been paid back and enhanced by $4,000. The reserve, $98,744.31, which does not show in the annual report, draws interest. Its purpose is to furnish funds for city operation if a depression should seriously affect sales tax revenue. The council dipped into the reserve to finance part of its lease-purchase program for post office parking lots and corporation yard. The purchase program is completed and the re-

Mrs. Schoeninger Was Leader In Founding Carmel Organizations

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

Several years ago, recounts a Carmel career woman who is also the mother of four, Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger came to call. "We chatted; she left," says the busy mother. "Afterwards I suddenly realized that I had just promised to deliver a speech on the national debt before the Carmel Women's Democratic Club. I knew then that Mrs. Schoeninger was a woman to be reckoned with."

Mrs. Schoeninger, a woman of quiet but forceful persuasion, a Carmel resident since 1925, has perhaps done more than any other single person in the way of founding and lending early and steady support to Carmel organizations.

She was first to recognize the need for a PTA here and is credited with founding it in 1926. She is a charter member and one of the first presidents of the Carmel Woman's Club, and an early member and a former director of the Carmel Music Society.

Other presidencies she has held include those of the Women's Democratic Club and the peninsula-wide League of Women Voters.

"When we came to Carmel," Mrs. Schoeninger explains, "the only existing organizations were the Masonic Lodge, the Abalone League, and Arts and Crafts."

Sole survivor of the three is, of course, the Masonic Lodge, although memories persist of league members playing softball on Carmel Point and of the artists and writers who formed the Arts and Crafts.

The condition which led to formation of the PTA, according to Mrs. Schoeninger, was that the cultural life of the community failed to touch the students at Sunset School.

With membership growing rapidly from a nucleus of seven women, all as determined as Mrs. Schoeninger to set things right, the PTA first purchased a grand piano for City Proceeds Against Work Lumber Co.

Carmel City License Collector Arthur Plaxton will sign a complaint today (Wednesday) on 14 counts against the Work Lumber Company, Incorporated, of Monterey charging that the Work trucks made deliveries in Carmel 14 times in one quarter, and the company is not licensed with the city, City Attorney John Morse informed the Pine Cone this morning.

Carmel's ordinance requires out-of-town firms which make a minimum of 12 deliveries in a quarter in Carmel to take out a license, fee based on truck tonnage.

There was some grumbling after the city council adopted the revised business license ordinance containing the out of town business delivery licensing provision. Work Lumber Company's attorney was in attendance when Robert Johnson, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the Carmel City Council and stated that the ordinance put a hardship on out of town merchants. The council took the stand that out of town delivery trucks put a hardship on Carmel streets and Carmel police who are responsible for keeping Carmel traffic untangled. Carmel merchants pay a city business license tax and other taxes as well toward maintaining these city services. Other California cities have out of town business delivery licensing. The council made it clear to Mr. Johnson that they had no intention of rescinding the license ordinance, though they agreed to his request that they send representatives to meet

Tree Tour Tuesday; Any Trees Below You Wish Spared?

When the city council goes on Tree Tour Tuesday at 4:00 o'clock, they have a good chance of finishing before dark. They have a relatively light agenda.

Here are the tree and street matters which the council will consider on site and act upon:

Request of William Ellis for removal of pine at southwest corner of Third Avenue, for access to property.

Union Oil Company request for permission to remove a redwood and a black walnut at San Carlos north of Sixth, in conjunction with correcting sidewalk allignment for reason of pedestrian safety.

Reginald Machado wishes to remove a cypress on Torres between Second and Third for access.

Hoisington Heads Committee On CASSA Report

David B. Hoisington is chairman of the implementing committee to study the California Association of Secondary School Administrators' report on Carmel High School. He was appointed at the first meeting of the group on Tuesday evening.

The committee meets again on December 4 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon in Mr. Warren Edwards' office. At this time further plans will be formulated after committee members have studied copies of the CASSA report presented to them Tuesday.

Mr. Edwards pointed out that the report recommendation to divorce administrative and disciplinary duties from student counselling had already been effected. An enlarged counselling staff now exists at the High School composed of faculty members. Formerly Principal Edwards and Miss Dorothy Wright, vice principal, had been student counselors in addition to their administrative work.

The CASSA report was made at the request of High School faculty and administrators. A review and appraisal of the High School program was necessary, they felt, because of the rapid growth of the school.

The implementing committee, consisting of administrators, faculty members, townspeople and students, will study means to develop suggestions made in the CASSA report.

U. C. Conference On Religion Opens At Asilomar Friday

Religion and the Face of America, a three-day conference presented by U.C. Extension, will open at Asilomar Friday, 1:30 o'clock.

Charles Glock, Professor of Sociology and Director of the Survey Research Center, University of California, Berkeley, will open the program Friday afternoon with a lecture on The Religious Revival in America. The American Evangelists will be discussed Friday evening by Philip Rieff, author of the forth-coming book, Freud: The Mind and the Moralist. Albert T. Rasmussen, Professor of Religion and Society at the Pacific School of Religion, will speak Saturday morning on Varieties of Religious Appeals and Who Responds.

The afternoon lecture, Saturday, will be on Religion and Mental Health-Compatible or Incompatible. John Preisinger, Founder and Director of the McAuley Psychiatric Clinic, St. Mary's Hospital, will deliver the talk. A Catholic for President, an evening talk, will be presented by Currin Shields, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of California, Los Angeles, and author of Democracy and Catholicism in America.

The concluding lecture Sunday morning will be offered by Clark Vincent, Assistant Professor of

Citizens Lose Fight To Hold Green Belt Zoning To Acre Sites

BY GUNNAR NORBERG

The will of some 1300 Carmel and Carmel Valley signers of a petition presented by Admiral C. W. Fisher, (USN, Ret.), was disregarded Monday afternoon when the County Board of Supervisors voted to approve the first tract in the long-disputed Carmel Knolls subdivision of Monterey Peninsula Associates. And the motion to approve was made by Supervisor Tom Hudson whose home is just south of Carmel. Last June the resolution of the County Planning Commission to approve the down-to-one-quarter-acre Carmel Knolls lots was initiated by a former Carmel mayor, Keith Evans, who is now vice chairman of the County Planning Commission.

The 1300 Carmel and Carmel Valley petitioners had asked that the Board of Supervisors hold the line on the one-acre-per-lot-minimum in the area involved, as well as elsewhere in Carmel environs. A dozen Carmel, Rio Vista, and Carmel Valley residents spoke in support of the petition, opposing what they called the threatened breakdown of the existing interim one-acre zoning and asking for precise and definitive one-acre zoning in the Carmel Knolls area. And dozens of other Carmelites were present in support of them in the crowded supervisors' chambers. Speakers who sought — in vain — to have the Supervisors maintain, and make permanent, the one-acre lot size in the Knolls area (located generally between the high school and Rancho Rio Vista) were Admiral Fisher, Carmel Councilman Tom May, W. S. Tower of Rio Vista, Mrs. Patricia Hall, John Stanton, Daniel Kohlsaat, Rupert Leach, all of Carmel, Paul Jones and Dudley Swim of Carmel Valley, and Carmel Councilman Gunnar Norberg. After pointing out that the Carmel City Planning Commission had long insisted upon the maintenance of the one-acre minimum in the Knolls area, Carmel Planner Florence Josselyn stated that the Carmel Planning Commission, and later the Carmel City Council, had officially asked for at least a half-acre-minimum-lot-size—a view also supported by Carmel's Eben Whittlesey. As in the case of the pleas for the one-acre lot size, the case for the half-acre-minimum lot size was likewise disregarded in the vote the Supervisors eventually took at the end of the some-

LOBOS AND PANTHERS IN TURKEY DAY CLASH

Coach George Porter takes his once-beaten Lobo football squad into the lair of the Hartnell Panther today for a showdown battle which could decide the championship of the junior college circuit and could also decide who is going to the Junior Rose Bowl at Pasadena. If the Lobos whip the Panthers, they will share the league title with Hartnell and San Jose City College. If the Panthers finish on top, they will be undisputed champs and could well receive the coveted invite to the Rose Bowl. Kickoff time for the red-hot crucial at the Salinas High stadium is 12 noon.

A look at the season's records indicates the Panthers should be slight favorites to outscore the scrappy Lobos but in a return rivalry situation such as this past performances mean very little. The toughest competition faced by either team was provided by San Jose City College which topped the Lobos, 18 to 12, and was beaten by Hartnell, 15 to 7. The Lobos led San Jose, 12 to 0, at the end of the first half but fell apart in the final two quarters. The San Jose-Hartnell game was much closer than the score indicates with Hartnell pulling away in the last few seconds of the game.

A pair of former Gilroy High stars, Bob Harrison and Julian Aguilar, spearhead a big Hartnell line while the Panther backfield is guided by quarterback Wayne Handley from Gonzales. Two of the top junior college backs in Northern California, Jim Stireman and Bob Cabanyog, give the Panthers a terrific one-two running punch. The fine Lobo passing game featuring Claude Crabb and Larry Guilford is supplemented by the quicks slants of Ted Smith and Hal Lopez, a pair of hard-running backs who have come up with key plays during the current season. The interior Lobo line is anchored by burly Al Siegner and ex-Padre Joe Mason who have turned in consistent jobs over the entire season.

THREE PADRES ON ALL-LEAGUE GRID SQUAD

Three Carmel High football players were honored by the league coaches last Monday night when they were selected for the mythical all-league first team. All three Padres were unanimous choices for their positions and all are graduating seniors. Phil White, 170-pound six-foot end, garnered one of the flank positions along with Gilroy's Charley Elder. Dennis Peavey, Carmel's leading scorer, was a heavy favorite for one of the backfield spots and Allen Baker was a top choice for one of the guard positions.

The first eleven was rounded out by tackles Pete Bourdet and George Ozuna of Hollister, guard Tom Campbell from King City, center Russ Medina of Hollister, and backs Elbert Enos, Gilroy, Malcolm Gregory, King City, and and Charley Duncan, Gonzales.

CARMEL HIGH BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Sixteen games and two tournaments lie ahead for the Carmel High School basketball squads during the 1958-59 season. Besides the regular league games the Padres are scheduled for jousts with Watsonville, Gilroy, Lincoln of San Jose, and St. Francis of Mountain View. First action for the all-veteran Padre varsity will be on December 6th when the Monterey Peninsula College reserves furnish the opposition for the Red & Gray. December 11-13 will find the Padres at the Gustine Invitational Tournament for action against the likes of Hilmar, Los Banos, Patterson, Newman, Hughson, Escalon, LaGrande, and host Gustine. This will be the third try for the Padres on the cozy Gustine Invitational and the classy Carmel squad could go all the way this year. Since Gilroy and Hollister have bolted the B-division of the CCAL to try their luck with the big ones in the A-division, the caliber of competition is below normal in the B-division and should present a wide-open race. First league tilt for Carmel is slated for December 19th when the San Lorenzo Cougars invade the Padre bailiwick. The Annual Carmel Invitational Tournament is slated for the first week in March with the usual array of fine cage talent on hand to liven up the proceedings.

times acrimonious four-hour-long afternoon session.

As Supervisor Tom Hudson said in summing up just before the decisive vote was taken, the Board of Supervisors had three choices: It could deny the precise zoning sought by the Monterey Peninsula Associates for the Carmel Knolls tract; it could refer the matter back to the County Planners for further study; or it could approve the Knolls tract as it stood with its far-less-than-one-acre lot sizes —which finally it did.

Notable coincidence to some members of the audience, who had attended a County Planning Commission hearing on the Knolls matter as long ago as last December, was the fact that Supervisor Hudson read the same Saturday Evening Post item which County Planning Commission Chairman Don Colegrove had found and read at the hearing mentioned, over which he had presided. The essence of the item was that one-acre zoning in Pennsylvania had not been entirely sustained. Many Carmel petitioners felt, however, that their area was the moot matter before the Board, and that this was the time for the Supervisors to act to protect "one of the great beauty spots of the world" at least by establishing permanently the one-acre lot size sought. They felt that the special scenic attraction of the undeveloped areas near Carmel could now only be maintained by keeping the single lots large enough to space out the houses in what both Carmel and Carmel Valley master plans have defined as the greatly desired "green belt" area.

Successful petitioners before the Board were speakers who espoused the cause of Monterey Peninsula Associates. Attorney Gordon Campbell; Manager Wright Fisher; Mrs. Harvey Crawford who stated that she owned property in Rancho Rio Vista but did not live there, as did also Gladys Johnston; Charles Strosnider of Carmel Valley; and Ernest Bixler of Carmel. Architect Tom Elston of Carmel was also called upon by Attorney Campbell. And Dale Lefler read a letter from J. D. Thorn, former County Planning Commission member, who endorsed the disputed Carmel Knolls subdivision. Also present in the Supervisors' Chambers were many of the 32 owners of Monterey Peninsula Associates.

Speakers representing the Carmel public-at-large felt that by granting the request of Monterey Peninsula Associates, the Supervisors would sacrifice the broad community interest in an extraordinarily beautiful scenic area, to a narrow private interest.

Before the Supervisors took the vote supporting the plea of Monterey Peninsula Associates in the Carmel Knolls matter, Salinas Supervisor Burt Talcott had urged the Board to take a position on other areas in the Carmel region which have not yet been definitively or permanently zoned. The implication of Talcott's remarks appeared to be that there might be some merit in the thought of stating publicly that the Board would in the future hold to the one-acre lot size in portions of the Carmel area where there is now only interim zoning governing. However no action was taken by the Board on this suggestion for a declaration of an attitude to serve as public notice to potential future subdividers.

Some disappointed Carmel petitioners left the long meeting in the Supervisors' Chambers with the view that Talcott, though he was the supervisor representing the Salinas area, was the Board member with the best understanding of the viewpoint of the Carmel pleaders for the public cause.

W. Hougland

Willard Niederlander Hougland died in his home at Torres Street and Eighth Avenue on Tuesday morning. He had been under medical care for a heart condition for some time but his death was unexpected.

Mr. Hougland was born in Kansas City, Missouri, on July 1, 1906. He came to live in Carmel two and a half years ago. A book dealer and writer, he had a shop for the display of Aztec and other artifacts in Monterey and lived in Big Sur before moving here. He was planning to open a shop in Big Sur and was making arrangements for this at the time of his death.

Survivors are his wife, Clarice; two daughters, Paula and Wendy Hougland, all of Carmel; and a son, Michael Hougland of Los Angeles.

Private funeral services will be held on Friday. Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Schoeninger Was Leader In Founding Carmel Organizations

the Sunset assembly room, then in the school basement, and in cooperation with impresario Dene Denny and others arranged to have visiting and local concert artists appear for the children on Friday mornings.

Mrs. Schoeninger smiles over the days, which stretched into several years, when PTA members by turns cooked hot lunches and rushed them to school, hardly a cultural contribution, but a needed and appreciated gesture until the school lunch program was established.

President for the first two years of the PTA, Mrs. Schoeninger holds an honorary life membership in the organization. She was so dedicated that not long ago she spent a summer extracting organizational history from local newspapers when the group lost their minutes, and made a phonograph record of PTA history. She has also served on the Carmel school board and at one time on the Monterey High School School Board before Carmel gained a high school of its own.

What organizations have done for Carmel surely doesn't need reiteration. Mrs. Schoeninger, however, finds equally interesting what they have done for individual members.

One of her friends began club work with such lack of self-confidence that the only way she could read before the group was seated with her back to her audience. With encouragement and tact, Mrs. Schoeninger, and other club officers who followed, eventually awakened in the shy member the talents of a fine public speaker.

Mrs. Schoeninger, who with her family and the Robinson Jeffers was one of the first dwellers on Carmel Point, is in a position to know well the loss of closeness which is one of the prices of population growth.

She remembers when the annual meeting of the Carmel Music Society was always an occasion for a costume ball. Hilarity ran high. An all-distaff orchestra held forth with piano, comb and saxophone. Mrs. Schoeninger played the xylophone —and even managed the Meistersinger overture. Dr. R. A. Kocher clowned and the late Edward Weston, dressed appropriately, danced the Spring Song.

Even the community events which transcended organizational boundaries have known both this closeness and the loyal support of Mrs. Schoeninger. She helped start the carol singing tradition around the decorated community tree at Ocean and Junipero Streets. And Mr. Schoeninger was among the many Santas who through the years rode down the hill in Bettie Greene's donkey cart.

But while civic and club events have perhaps lost in individuality, there is no question that they have grown adequately to serve the larger community in which they find themselves. There is much for Mrs. Schoeninger, who is still active clubwise, to be proud of.

The Carmel Music Society is presenting baritone Dietrich Fisher-Dieskau in a program on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset School Auditorium. He will sing Six Lieder aus dem Zyklus Schwanengesang by Franz Schubert and Dichterliebe of Robert Schumann. The young singer, member of the Berlin opera company, is considered one of the finest interpreters of German art-songs on the concert stage today.

Otis Burchell

Otis Weaver Burchell, 23, took his own life by firing a 30-30 carbine bullet into his heart, Coroner Christopher Hill announced on Tuesday. The young Monterey Peninsula College student shot himself on Sunday night in the Carmel home of Mrs. Janet Allen where he had been a boarder since June.

He was born in Monroe, Louisiana, on July 12, 1935. He entered the Army in August, 1954, served a tour of duty in Japan and was discharged at Fort Ord in May.

He is survived by his father, W. B. Burchell of Spokane, Washington; his mother, Mrs. Bonnie Meeker of Valsetz, Oregon; a daughter, Deborah Lenn Hammond of Crystal Springs, Oregon; and two sisters, Mrs. Daisie Margaret Black of Des Moines, Washington, and Mrs. Carmen McGraw of Valsetz, Oregon.

Funeral services are on Friday in Dallas, Oregon, in the Bollman Mortuary. Burial will be in the Dallas City Cemetery.

How to do it better with WATER

WHO TURNED THE SHOWER OFF?

It's no joke when the water becomes just a trickle right in the middle of a warm, sudsy shower. Water pipes that are too small cause pressure losses when more than one faucet is open. You'll get better water service if the pipes in your home are big enough to supply a strong flow of water even when ALL the faucets are turned on. If you are building or remodeling your home, plan now for adequate piping.

California Water and Telephone Company, too, plans its water distribution system so that there is sufficient pressure at all levels of demand and delivers water to your home through a distribution system that requires pipes of tremendous size. Providing adequate water flow to all our users demands our having sufficient storage to supply this flow. Only constant expansion and planning for tomorrow can guarantee you a sufficient water supply today.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

I get awfully bored with myself. I talk . . . talk . . . talk . . . tossing about professional advice by the yard, and do you know I am the only one who seldom takes this advice? All this year I have been badgering patrons and friends on the culture of chrysanthemums for satisfactory fall blooming. Chrysanthemums should be cut back at least four times during the summer, they should be disbudded time and time again, and most important, the plants should be staked up to prevent the flop-over, which leaves the stems crooked and unsightly.

Well, my garden is the only one where I have been a "Familiar" that suffers all these faults. My lovely plants are biting the dust, crooked stems and so many blooms that the whole are insignificant bunches of indifferent flowers. I apologize to my garden.

Doctors are much like other professionals. Just let a Doctor's patient get the sniffles and the patient is ordered to bed. The doctor may be walking around with a nice case of pneumonia, but does the Doctor ever go to bed voluntarily? So, I guess the old saw covers both these predicaments: "Don't do as I do, do as I say." I am trying to do better with my winter garden.

Stock and snapdragons are the base of our fall and winter flowering plants and should be planted as soon now as possible. This is one advice I give and that I take unto myself, following faithfully. Never buy a flat of annuals that is either in bloom or too tall. They will be root-bound and slow to start, if ever. Tip all small plants, removing the first spires and keep cutting back and back until all plants have begun to branch out insuring many more flowers than the plants that are left to themselves. Nemesia especially should be kept very low for many weeks. If the first spires of Nemesia are allowed to bloom, the plants will never be uniform but scraggly and uneven with indifferent flowers. All the strength of the plant will go to the first blooms, before the roots have had time to establish themselves for later show.

Violas are satisfactory this time of year. There is something odd in the difference between violas and pansies. They both stem from the same hybrids, yet the violas never seem to invite insects where as pansies are in constant danger of damaging insects. I have seldom seen a fall of pansies that have weathered the winter without much spraying, where the violas, right next to the pansies go blooming along for many months.

CIRCLE THEATRE OFFERS SEASON TICKET PLAN

Season tickets will be available for productions at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre from January to June, under a plan announced this week. A season of four plays will be presented, which subscribers may see for the price of three, by buying a ticket during the month of December.

Mrs. Kuhlman Fluehr, of Pebble Beach, heads a group of friends of the Circle who will be selling subscriptions by mail and telephone, as well as at the theatre box office, beginning December 3. Subscribers will be asked to select the plays they would like to have produced as a part of the plan. A survey to determine what shows would be most popular with local audiences has been in progress at the theatre for the past several weeks.

Already scheduled as the first play of the 1959 season is The Little Hut, by Andre Roussin. The French comedy, adapted by Nancy Mitford, will open on December 12 for a one weekend, and re-open after the holidays for a five-week run in January.

NINE TONS OF TURKEY

Nine tons of turkey await hungry soldiers and their dependents for the traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner at Fort Ord.

The menu, set by the Military Subsistence Supply Agency, features roast turkey with giblet gravy, bread dressing, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes or sweet potatoes, hot rolls, a selection of vegetables, either pumpkin or mincemeat pie, and assorted fruits and candies.

Nora Hamilton

Mrs. Nora McCaffrey Law Hamilton died yesterday afternoon after a month of ill health. A retired school teacher and newspaperwoman, she had lived in Carmel since 1947 and was an active and enthusiastic member of local organizations. Her cheerful disposition and humorous outlook on life endeared her to a large group of friends.

Mrs. Hamilton was born in Fort Bridger, Wyoming, on September 25, 1879. She had lived in California for 60 years and was a graduate of the University of California. She last taught in the Hayward School District and was a correspondent for the Oakland Tribune during the time she lived in the East Bay area. After coming to Carmel she joined the staff of The Pine Cone and was social editor in 1947 and continued with this paper as a feature writer.

She was a member of the California Writers Club, the Carmel Woman's Club, the Carmel Republican Women's Club and the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club and wrote publicity for the last organization.

Her marriage to Robert Hamilton, former sheriff of Uinta County, Wyoming, took place in Uinta in June.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Gordon H. Graham of Berkeley; a granddaughter, Mrs. Susan Benthien of Napa; a sister, Mrs. Mae Donaldson Aiken of Huntington Park; and two nephews, Fred Brandis and Stanley E. McCaffrey, vice principal of the University of California.

Funeral services are to be on Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Hamilton are asked to do so in the form of donations to their favorite charities.

Ward Of Golden Gate At First Theatre Is "Fun All The Way"

BY MAX TADLOCK

Particularly appropriate to California's First Theatre is the current production, The Ward of the Golden Gate, which opened Friday night. Dramatized from the Bret Harte story of the same title by Wilma Bott, a former Gold Coast trouper, it retains the rich Dickensian elements which made local colorist Harte so popular in his day.

And if a few of the eleven scenes — yes, eleven — had curtain lines lacking the customary melodramatic punch, the whole production was such a rollicking one and the sets so interestingly done that no one would complain.

The plot concerns the attempt of a crimson woman Kate Howard to protect her little daughter from the taint of her own life. To accomplish this, she has the child, Yerba Buena, made a ward of three men—the mayor of San Francisco; Col. Pendleton, a banker; and Paul Hathaway, a rising young politician. After many years, several duels, and a European junket, true love finally brings Paul and Yerba together.

Jack Kidwell as the mayor, Cleveland Dayton as the colonel, and Al Olinger as Hathaway, were all excellent guardians. In the exceedingly fat role of the duelling Kentuckian officer, Mr. Dayton was an especial crowd-pleaser even though he certainly shared his honors with the prompter in the wings.

As Kate Howard, Barbara Ziegweid turned in her best First Theatre performance. She is a first rate comedienne. Gilda Dayton was her lovely sparkling-eyed daughter Yerba and showed very nicely the transition of the girl from convent school to European social whirl.

Her companion and confidante Millie Woods was ably played by Laverne Seeman. Millie's Aunt was played by the always excellent Madeleine Hicks.

Ignacio Rendon was the darkly evil Don Cesar Briones and Laura Rendon was his unhappy accomplice and wife. Le Roy Ottman in blackface was the epitome of the loyal servant to the gallant colonel. Carl Sherman was the henpecked political supporter of Hathaway and Joyce Olinger was a proper shrew as his wife. Al Holliday as a secretary and Barbara Weis as a nurse completed the fine cast.

The olio, excellent as always, contained several nice surprises. Babs Richardson did two solo comedy numbers, one address to The Outdoor Girls of Canada being particularly appreciated by the audience. Two other imports to the cast, Sherrie Yokomizo and Paul Vecker, were delightful in a pas de deux from the ballet The Nutcracker.

Director Charles Thomas is to be complimented on a show that is fun all the way.

Pauline Wells

Mrs. Pauline Haugen Wells died on November 20 in a local hospital after a long illness. She came here to live from Beverly Hills 15 years ago. Her interest in music and writing led her to establish The Wells' Book and Music store which has been located on Ocean Avenue for nearly two years. Before that it was situated on Lincoln Street. After her husband, Colonel Joseph L. Wells, retired from Army duty he became an active partner in the business with Mrs. Wells. She instituted a series of meet-the-author autograph parties for local writers which have been a feature of Carmel life since the Wells' shop opened.

Formerly a member of the Junior League in Nebraska, Mrs. Wells helped establish and was a charter member of the Monterey Peninsula League.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Wells is survived by a son, Harvey Kinnard Holden of West Covina; a sister, Mrs. Jack Schekall of Colorado Springs, Colorado; and three grandchildren, Lynn, Paul and Allan Holden of West Covina.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, officiating.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Wells are asked to do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Heart Association, Box 1329, Monterey.

E. S. Conner

Edward Scudder Conner, retired apartment house manager, died on November 20 in a local hospital after a short illness. He came here to live two and a half years ago and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Garr of Mission Fields. He was born in Calistoga on May 29, 1879.

Besides Mrs. Garr, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Marjory Agorastos of Burlingame.

Private funeral services were held on November 21. Inurnment was in Woodlawn Memorial Park Columbarium in Colma.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Conner are asked to do so in the form of donations to their favorite charities.

ATHEIS

Atheis, the new atomic god,
Riding the salamandrine roan on the searing wind,
Watches the stars prick holes in the inkled sky,
While ants upon the earth,
Through dust and wood and sand,
Go streaming by—
And never think to ask the question—"Why?"

Now— Atheis
Sits cross-legged on the Moon,
And swings, and swings —
Waiting — Listening —
For the time when silence rings!—
The time when little man no longer sings!

—MARGARET BARBRICK PURCELL.

THE FLASK FILLED

How shall man slake the thirsting of his soul?
Set each day one new task requiring effort, confidently ask for power of will to carry through . . . to weave fine threads of truth together in one whole firm fabric, to unmask pride aping meekness, to believe all life divine, to practice self-control, sometimes to ease a wanderer toward faith's goal.
So striving, we achieve the draught that brims this empty flask; only in giving shall the soul receive.

—HELEN FAULKNER.

STORM MOODS

The thunder of surf on a rock-strewn reef
Smothered by foaming sea,
Punctuates the spume-filled air
With its beat of monotony.
As a crescent moon rides the eastern sky
In a veil of cloudland fantasy.
Weirdly the moan of a hidden buoy
Warns of shoals off-shore;
And the angry whine of the rigging wind
Echoes its dismal tone; before
Night draws the curtains of mystery
Over the throbbing, restless sea.

—GRACE R. BALLARD.

Maud MacKenzie

Mrs. Maud Mackenzie died in a Menlo Park nursing home on November 19 after a long period of ill health. Until four years ago she made her home here and was a familiar Carmel figure, identified by her clan tartan shawl and the small dog which was her constant companion.

Mrs. MacKenzie was born in Texas 77 years ago. She came to Carmel with her husband, an attorney, and they built the large stone house at the north end of the beach. After Mr. MacKenzie's death in an automobile accident, Mrs. MacKenzie sold the house but continued to live on property which she owned on North San Antonio Street for many years.

She is survived by two brothers, Leland John Sparks of San Francisco and Benton K. Sparks of Alameda; and a niece, Miss Nancy Sparks of San Francisco.

Funeral services were held on November 21 in Palo Alto. Burial was in Reno, Nevada.

Helen Kindt

Mrs. Helen Walker Kindt died on November 20 in a local rest home. She had been in failing health for some time.

Mrs. Kindt was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on October 11, 1890. She made her home in Berkeley before moving to Carmel 11 years ago. She was an active member of All Saints' Episcopal Church. Her husband Albert Kindt died many years ago.

Survivors are a son, Carl Kindt of Oakland; three daughters, Mrs. William H. Turner, Jr., of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Robert Coyle of Euphrata, Washington, and Mrs. Donald Kneedler of Sarasota, Florida; and 13 grandchildren.

Funeral services were on Monday afternoon in All Saints' Episcopal Church with the rector, the Reverend David Hill, officiating. Inurnment followed in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Food For Fine Feasting on Thanksgiving!

On America's traditional feast day, historic in significance, religious in concept, joyous in celebration, we find a true expression of our heritage.

Thanks to God for His bounty of harvest, His blessing of forest, sea and wood. Gratitude to those who first struck the courageous, pioneer path in the wilderness of this great continent.

For America's great day of Thanksgiving you will find here in Carmel everything you need for full expression of thanks, both in the spiritual form of genuine Thanksgiving, and in the more conventional way of good living, enjoyed at table, fireside, hearth and home.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL

Gentlemen

In accordance with the requirements of Section 40803 et seq. of the Goverment Code of the State of California I present herewith a summary statement of receipts and disbursements by departments and funds for the fiscal year commencing 1 July, 1957 and ending 30 June, 1958. I further certify that this is a true and exact statement reconciled with the Official Accounts of the City.

L. D. Rose, City Clerk

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The first concert of the fourth season of the Chamber Music Society was played Sunday afternoon at the Carmel Woman's Club; fortunately not on the high platform but on the floor with the seating arranged in comfortable and intimate semicircles, accommodating a larger audience than the Circle Theatre could last season. An interesting program of right length in three works by Albinoni, Purcell and Samuel Barber aroused the enthusiasm of the many subscribers and others present.

Opening with Albinoni's Concerto for Oboe and String Orchestra, Eloyd Clapper was heard with pleasure in his truly musical performance of the oboe solos. It is a charming work in joyous and exuberant melodic lilts with expressively longer line in the Adagio. This was conducted by Joseph Axup. Three songs for Soprano and Strings by Purcell were conducted by Gilbert Boyer presenting Norma Jean Scott as soloist. She has a true soprano voice and delivered The Night, Dido's Lament, and Eclipse with appealing charm in Purcell's pure lyrical writing, especially in the Lament where the orchestral accompaniment is so eloquently descriptive, and rendered so by the players who were Eiko Yoshizato, Elizabeth DuVal, David Hagemeyer, H. M. M. Nicholas, Charlotte Perry, Sheila Webster, Jerald Slavich, Marie Sale, Mary Dobel, Louise Friedhofer and Edwin Culver. The Barber Adagio for Strings with melodic line and emotional beauty of contour in peaceful harmony, performed by the orchestra with sympathy, was conducted by Lloyd Clapper who showed musical understanding and executive ability in action. It is admirable that Boyer is sharing conducting with him and Axup who with poise also directed the final Bach Concerto for Two Claviere where the orchestra accompanied the pianos. Angie Machado and Boyer at two grands made a strong final performance, though the more finely modulated playing of Machado was partly drowned with Boyer's harder touch. Bach does not call for continuous forte, though possibly the difference in piano mechanism had something to do with it! All received recalls. At this time Mrs. Boyer made the announcement that Mrs. Philip Schneeberger had loaned one of the grands to the Society for the season.

The Society is certainly fortunate, with the now increasing interest in chamber music, that the enterprising Gilbert Boyer can call on many good local musicians for appearances. In most cities today efforts are being made to present local artists rather than placing so much dependance on importations, for citizens are interested to learn the musical calibre of those among them.

Grace Boke

Mrs. Grace Sophia Boke, a resident of Carmel for over 50 years, died on November 22 in a local rest home after a long period of failing health. She was 86 years old.

Mrs. Boke first came to Carmel in 1907 with her husband, the late George H. Boke, professor of jurisprudence at the University of California, whose efforts led to the establishment of Boalt Hall of Law on the Berkeley campus.

In 1910 Mrs. Boke and her husband built a house at the corner of Dolores and Santa Lucia Streets. This home was a center of informal hospitality in Carmel for three generations of the Boke family. Last year, after the death of her third daughter, Mrs. Marion B. Todd, Mrs. Boke, in feeble health, moved from the family home.

She was born on February 19, 1872, in New York City. Her father William Henry Bray was editor of the New York Clipper. When Mrs. Boke was a child, her father's ill health caused him to bring his family to California. They came by sailing vessel and crossed the Isthmus of Panama to settle in San Francisco.

In Carmel Mrs. Boke was active in the early life of the village but her family, her home and her garden were her prime interests. Friends of her own, her children and her grandchildren were welcomed in the Boke home at all times. Until a few years ago she walked or rode the bus to town each day, carrying her shopping basket on her arm and greeting her numerous acquaintances on the way to and from the post office. She maintained an interest in world affairs and developed a cheerful philosophy about living in spite of many vicissitudes and tragedies in her family. Her husband died on January 5, 1929, after being bedridden for eight years. Two of her daughters, Mrs. Eliot Schaffner and Mrs. Caris Kinsey died within the next three years.

Surviving are her son, Richard L. Boke, an official of the Reynolds Aluminum Company in Richmond, Virginia, and five grandchildren, John Burns Todd of Lafayette, Richard Boke, Jr., of New York City, Sara Boke of Berkeley, Thorne Kinsey of San Jose and Peter Kinsey.

The Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, officiated at graveside funeral services in Cemeterio El Encinal in Monterey on Monday morning.

ADVENTURES IN AFRICA

The Rowes Have Fun In The East

James Rowe has just returned to his Ocean Avenue business, The Village Shoe Tree, after a month's tour of the eastern United States. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe left Carmel in mid-October for a trip that took them to New York, Boston, Washington, Baltimore and Kansas City. They visited friends and business acquaintances in those cities, while Lorene stopped off in Kansas City for a stay with her mother, Mrs. Grace Barry.

Highlight of the trip was election night in Times Square when Lorene and Jim, coming out of New York's Majestic Theater, after seeing The Music Man, were surrounded by the jubilant crowds celebrating Nelson Rockefeller's election as Governor of New York. Jim says that the most interesting window display he saw on his trip was not in a shoe store. It was the New York window of Georg Jensen, the Danish silversmith-jeweler, who had placed large photographs of both candidates Rockefeller and Harriman inside, and then surrounded both pictures with dozens of sterling silver spoons.

Lorene and Jim attended the opera in Chicago, and in Washington visited the National Gallery, The White House, Mount Vernon and Annapolis. They took time, too, to attend the first Chicago National Shoe Fair at which footwear manufacturers from all over the U.S., from Italy and England, displayed shoe fashions for next spring. They also visited the shoe plants of Capezio, Hill and Dale and Palizzio, and finally, Jim leaving Lorene with her mother in Kansas City, came on alone to Los Angeles for the West Coast shoe show of next year's styles. Mrs. Rowe returned to Carmel last Sunday in time to spend Thanksgiving at Pebble Beach with her family.

Activities At RLS

The Robert Louis Stevenson School has received a gift of 140 books from Dr. and Mrs. John H. Gratiot of Monterey. Included are sets of the complete works of Robert Louis Stevenson, Walter Scott and George Eliot; four volumes of Lord Dunsany's tales; two volumes of Odgen Nash's comic verse and Last Circle Stories and Poems of Stephen Vincent Benet.

Breckinridge Thomas, Fresno attorney and father of Breck Thomas, a Stevenson junior, addressed the classes in senior history and public speaking recently. His talk before the history seniors concerned constitutional law.

Capt. Peter Kim of Carmel and the Officers' Language School at the Presidio also addressed the students.

The freshman class gave a dance on Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Gratiot. Mike Farley, class president, was in charge of the dance arrangements.

The student committee appointed to make preparations for the Gay Way of the Stevenson school's annual Christmas Bazaar and Carnival, to be held on December 6, from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock is: Bob Morris, chairman; Frank Backus, Doug Cass, Pete Chesebrough, Wes Cook, Authur Dahl, Westy Fletcher, Bill Graham, Al Herrmann, Tom Henry, Dick Hunter, Ken McGilvray, Steve Matchett and Marty Weinstein.

Preparatory to the making of a golf driving range and a second basketball court, a number of trees on the north campus of the Stevenson school have been felled. The area is now being graded. Among the students who have been assisting Athletic Director W. V. Graham Mathews in tree removal are: Barry Craven, Beau Day, Pat Jenkins, Les Hinrichs and John Patu.

Padre Trails At Town House

The December art exhibit at The Carmel Foundation Town House will be a showing of photography by the members of the Padre Trails Camera Club of the Monterey Peninsula. This club was organized in 1949 by E. M. Brooks, George Herzenberg and Ernest Victorine, with the aim of improving amateur photography. The first meeting was held in the old Forest Hill Hotel. Now affiliated with the Photographic Society of America and the Central Coast Counties Camera Club Council, the Padre Trails Camera Club meets on the first and third Thursday evenings of the month in the Carmel High School cafeteria at 8:00 o'clock.

Chester W. Smith is the president for the coming year.

This exhibit has been arranged by the courtesy of Olivia Young, present chairman of the program committee and also a Carmel Foundation member. The photographs will be hung December 1 and will be on view for the month during Town House hours, 10:00 to 5:00 o'clock Monday through Friday. All who are interested in seeing the fine work of this club of amateur photographers are invited to see this exhibit.

Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel
Attention: Mrs Cook

Dear Mrs. Cook:

Thank you for your excellent coverage of our efforts to maintain a one-acre minimum building lot size in Carmel's environs, especially for your editorial support.

Although the Carmel Knolls subdivision was approved by the Monterey County Supervisors, nevertheless I feel that much good was accomplished. I do not concur in the views expressed that when the Los Angeles real estate boys with big money move in the whole valley will become one large housing tract. Rather do I take hope from the statement of Supervisor Thomson Hudson that this does not constitute a precedent for further encroachment on the one-acre minimum; and in the suggestion of Supervisor Talcott that the Board of Supervisors should make a declaration of its policy regarding building lot sizes in Carmel's environs.

May I take this opportunity to thank all the loyal workers who have contributed so generously their time and efforts in this campaign.

Faithfully yours,
Citizens Committee
C. W. Fisher,

Chairman

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

One of the sad things about being a librarian is the necessity of passing out to certain people the same type of book day after day after day. A reading rut is one of the hardest things to crawl out of, and many's the person who resists and resents any effort to ease him out of his comfortable rut. A recent aticle in a magazine deals with this subject and here is a quote from it. . . . "unless reading opens up new and wider experience or knowledge, it becomes not enlightening but mere dope or means of aggravating one's lack of proper balance and integration. As far as possible, one should choose books which interest because they touch on things which are a part of our experience. But they should be books . . . on the borderline of one's knowledge and taste, so that in reading them there is an expansion of personality, a development of appreciation, and exploration into the previously unknown." Isn't that nice? Not, of course, that it's any of our business, but after all, we do have so many books on so many different subjects.

Our play this week is Time Remembered by Jean Anouilh. A delightful, witty play in which Helen Hayes appeared on Broadway. Another delightful thing, is the new Louise Dickinson Rich book entitled The Peninsula. This is the Gouldsboro Peninsula in Maine. There is much talk of the personalities and social activities of the people, their food, their conversation, the things which make them different and appealing. Mrs. Rich does this very well.

It is said that doctors recommend to their troubled patients the book The Changing Years by Madeline Gray. It is a discussion of the menopause and should end for the reader all belief in the old wives' tales which have surrounded the subject for countless years.

There are two new books on the subject of Christian Science. One was written by Robert Peel, a staff writer on the Christian Science Monitor. The title is Christian Science; It's Encounter with American Culture. The other is by a minister living in Dallas, Texas, and is entitled Christian Science Today; Power, Policy, Practice. As might be inferred from the title, the author Charles Braden, takes issue with certain things which he believes are true about the church as it is today. Both books contain bibliographies and indexes.

In line with the recent revival of interest in F. Scott Fitzgerald, we have a new copy of The Beautiful and Dammed. This was written when Fitzgerald was 25 years old, and followed his successful This Side of Paradise. Mackinley Kantor has a new one entitled The Work of Saint Francis, the title being self-explanatory. There is also the last from the pen of Ann Parrish which was published after her death and is said by it's publisher to end, although to this reader it seemed only to pause. Another novel from the standpoint of a small child is Jonathan Found by Cecil Maiden. There are two or three mysteries, a rounded collection of new fiction, it might be called. Come in and look over the lists.

FIRE CALL

Carmel Volunteer Fire Department answered a call to the home of Joseph Thomas, Third and San Carlos Streets, at 7:20 o'clock last night. Lint in a floor furnace had ignited but the blaze was extinguished before firemen arrived.

DR. FLETCHER SUCCEEDS MRS. VON MEIER ON C.S.B.A.

Paul Aurignac of San Ardo was elected representative-at-large on the Monterey County Committee on School District Organization by members of the Monterey County School Boards Association on Monday. He replaces David B. Hoisington of Carmel Valley who declined re-election. Dr. Grant Fletcher of Carmel Valley succeeds Mrs. Dorothy von Meier of Carmel as representative from the Carmel Unified School District to the County School Boards Association.

Other election to the school district organization committee was Henry Fukuba of Aromas, Francis W. Paul of Alisal was re-elected to the committee and as president of the school boards association.

Sidney Barson

Sydney Barson, a Carmel housepainter, was discovered dead on Sunday in his car parked on the old Carmel-Monterey dirt road across from the Carmel Hill Gate to Pebble Beach on Highway 1. A garden hose led from the exhaust pipe into the car. In a note found in the car, Mr. Barson stated he was taking his life because of a heart condition which made him unable to work.

Mr. Barson was born in Leicester, England, 60 years ago. He had lived here for nine and a half years and was a member of the Painter's Union, Local No. 272.

He is survived by his wife Dorothy of Carmel; a son, G. Sidney Barson of Chico; a daughter, Mrs. Daniel E. Silverie of Carmel; four brothers, Harry, Thomas, John and Robert Barson and three sisters, Mrs. Ellen Hurd, Mrs. Phyllis Fulford and Mrs. D. Drinkwater, all living in Leicester; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services, conducted by Chaplain John R. Wright were held on Tuesday.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Barson are asked to do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Heart Association, Box 1329, Monterey.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The imperative need for spiritual alertness as our defense from evil will be stressed in Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," will include the following from James (1:2, 3, 12):

"My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. . . . Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep th faith, they will have the crown of rejoining" (29:11).

Larry's Annual Report On City Finances

serve was reimbursed out of current funds. Clerk Rose has consistently pointed out the need of a substantial reserve for a city that depends heavily on so sensitive a source as sales tax revenue for its operation.

This is the second year that Mr. Rose has presented his report for legal publication in graphic form, a departure in presenting financial statements.

"An accountant might prefer the standard 'bank statement' type of presentation, but the annual report is not for accountants," Mr. Rose explains. "The object of publishing the statement is to inform the citizens, and I have tried to present it in a fashion that is readable."

Last year, following publication of the first graphic report, people called him for the first time to ask questions about the financial statement, an indication that it was being read and thought about, he believes.

"Ninety percent of the calls were for an explanation of the item 'Beaches, $0.14'. I explained that the fourteen cents was for a bolt and nut to repair a sign on the beach," he said.

"Also, a number of the calls concerned the blank box in the right hand upper corner. Had I forgotten something that should have gone in it? I explained that I had worked out an expandable form and the blank box was for a new fund, if we should ever need it. This year we have another unattached blank box. I expect enquiries about it."

When the graphic report appeared for the first time last year it created considerable interest among fiscal officers; it was printed in the Journal of National Institute of Municipal Clerks, and Mr. Rose received inquiries from as far distant places as the New England States.

As for the story the financial report tells, Clerk Rose commented on the increased closing balance over the opening balance from the preceding year, in marked contrast to the predicament in which the State of California finds itself.

All departments show an increase in expenditures in this 1957-1958 report over the 1956-57 report because of increase in salaries and in capital outlay.

The operating expense increase is $14,946.09 for the city, plus $5,493.60 for the library; capital outlay increase, $30,022.15 and refunds, $1,231.42. Substracting a decrease in debt service of $1,060.00 and decrease of $25.00, contingency, the increase on 1957-58 of all expenses from 1956-57 amounts to $50,608.26.

City Proceeds Against Work Lumber Company

with the three other Peninsula cities' representatives with the object of achieving uniformity in the Peninsula cities' delivery licensing ordinances. The council said they were willing "to show them ours" in case the other cities wished to bring theirs into conformity with Carmel's and expressed the view that Carmel has a better and more reasonable fee scale than the others. A representative of the Work Lumber Company attended the conference and protested delivery licensing. The other cities seemed interested in Carmel's ordinance and took copies home to study, but recently rescinded their delivery licensing ordinances.

Meanwhile, as far as can be determined, all the out of town firms, from San Francisco on down, which make regular deliveries in Carmel had paid their fees, except the Work Lumber Company, according to Tax Collector Plaxton. After the Work Lumber Company had received several notices and refused to comply, the city council instructed Mr. Plaxton to proceed.

The complaint will be filed in Monterey-Carmel Municipal court since the alleged violation is a misdemeanor.

Vincent Butler

Vincent Regnoir Butler died on Saturday evening while pinned under his car after an accident which plunged the vehicle 150 feet into a ravine below the Cachagua road in upper Carmel Valley. A few minutes before his death, his son Dale, 8, returned to the accident scene after having run over three miles to Prince's Camp to summon help.

Mr. Butler was born in Driggs, Iowa, 43 years ago. He lived in Pacific Grove for ten years before moving to Carmel Valley two and a half years ago. He married Audrey May McNeill in Rigby, Idaho, on November 22, 1935. His death occurred on his twenty-third wedding anniversary. He was employed as a printer at the W. T. Lee Printing Company in Monterey. He was a member of International Typographical Union No. 759 and of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of Pacific Grove.

Survivors are his wife; two sons Dale and Terrell; four brothers, Wesley Butler of Washington, D. C., Quintin Butler of Monrovia, Dale Butler of Billings, Montana, and Morris Butler of Pocatello, Idaho; two sisters, Mrs. Francis Sessions of San Diego and Mrs. Aldene Borley of Calgary, Alberta, Canada; and his mother, Mrs. Elvira Hopkins Butler of Idaho.

Funeral services were this afternoon in the Paul Mortuary with Bishop Worth Ingersoll officiating. Interment was in El Carmel Cemetery.

Graves Gives Views Of Conservationists On Wilderness Bill

Statement by C. Edward Graves, Box SS, Carmel, California, representing the Point Lobos League—for the presentation to the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, U. S. Senate, at field hearings in San Francisco, California, November 10, 1958.

My name is Edward Graves. I live in Carmel, California. I represent the Point Lobos League, an organization of some 150 members that was very active in helping to establish Point Lobos Reserve just south of Carmel as a unit of the State Park System in 1933. We have continued to work in various conservation projects since that time.

Our primary interest is in saving some remnants of the original American scene from "development." In 1912 Secretary of the Interior Ballinger said: "You chaps who are in favor of this conservation program are all wrong. You are hindering the development of the West . . . In my opinion the proper course to take is to divide it up among the big corporations and the people who know how to make money out of it and let the people at large get the benefit of the circulation of money." In the 46 years since that time this extreme viewpoint has happily been watered down considerably. However, our pitifully small remnants of the original wilderness are still in danger of the "development" that Secretary Ballinger favored so frankly. The Wilderness Bill in giving this nation for the first time a workable wilderness policy will be a bulwark against unnecessary "development." The "people at large," to quote Secretary Ballinger, will get the benefit, not so much out of the "circulation of money" that he advocated, although travel money spent by recreationists is in many wilderness areas more important than commodity resource income, but in the spiritual refreshment that comes from a contact with unspoiled wilderness. This cannot be measured in terms of money.

We understand that the objections, mainly of an administrative nature, that were raised by some Government bureaus, have now to a large extent been removed. We do not recognize as valid any other objections. For these reasons we support very strongly S. 4028 and urge the Congress to pass the bill quickly.

The Studio Theatre is giving a special Thanksgiving performance of Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap on Thanksgiving evening at 8:30 o'clock. This murder melodrama usually plays on Friday and Saturday evenings only.

Tree Tour Tuesday: Any Trees Below You Wish Spared?

nue from Junipero east for 57 feet.

Mrs. Charles Rayne requests that the city plant pine trees in the center island on Ocean Avenue east of Lincoln, so that replacements will be growing when the present trees, now dying, have to be removed.

Regular city council meeting will be held Wednesday night, 7:45 o'clock. The planning commission's recommendation that the city buy the tree-covered lots on the corner of Ocean and Carpenter Streets for a natural park will be officially considered. At the unofficial sound-out-the-public meeting Friday, the public's response was so favorable that favorable action can be expected Wednesday night.
